

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

FORMER WALLABY ADAM FREIER JOINS INTRUST SUPER SHUTE SHIELD COMMENTARY TEAM

Adam Freier who played 25 Test matches for the Wallabies has signed with Intrust Super Shute Shield's coverage on 7TWO.

Freier who still actively plays for Randwick in the Intrust Super Shute Shield, also represented NSW Waratahs and Melbourne Rebels joins Former Wallaby Cameron Shepherd, Andrew Swain and the voice of club rugby Tony Lewis.

"Having been involved in the Intrust Super Shute since 1999, I am very passionate about what this competition provides. From the local communities to professional pathways. The local game is vital.

"Whether playing for Randwick, calling from the sidelines, or serving pies in the tuckshop, I am honoured to be associated with this competition.

"Seven have done an outstanding job putting together a great team and I am honoured to be a part of the action."

7TWO's coverage of the Intrust Super Shute Shield has been very well received by the rugby community and sports lovers generally.

Saul Shtein, Seven's Head of Sport, said: "We're delighted to have Adam join the team. We are pleased to be a partner in The Intrust Super Shute Shield and look forward to its continuing growth. Seven likes being a part of a competition which has such a long and deep history and an exciting future."

Eastwood host Manly in a top of the table Intrust Shute Shield clash live on 7TWO from 3pm this Saturday.

Manly remain undefeated in 2015 and got the better of Eastwood when the pair met at Manly Oval in round 9. However last year's premiers will be a far greater challenge at home in front of a parochial TG Millner crowd.

Both Eastwood and Manly average more than 37 points a match, ensuring plenty of running rugby this weekend.

Don't miss Eastwood play Manly, live on 7TWO from 3pm this Saturday.
