Andrew Greene joins The Nightly and The West Australian

Seven West Media has today announced Andrew Greene is joining The Nightly and The West Australian as National Political Editor.

Mr Greene brings to the team more than two decades of experience covering federal politics, originally joining the Canberra Press Gallery with 2GB in 2004 before joining the Seven Network as a Political Reporter in 2006. During his time at Seven, Mr Greene was a finalist in the Walkley Young Journalist of the Year awards.

Between 2010 and 2025, Mr Greene worked for the ABC, where he held a number of senior roles, including Defence Correspondent for more than a decade. His reporting has taken him across Australia and around the world, including assignments in Afghanistan, Iraq, the United States and across Europe.

In 2023, Mr Greene was appointed an Adjunct Professor at The University of Canberra in the faculty of Business, Government and Law.

Mr Greene said: “I’m thrilled to be joining The West Australian and The Nightly at a time when they’re leading the evolution of digital journalism in Australia. Their commitment to innovative, high-impact reporting makes this an exciting opportunity to contribute to political coverage at a critical moment for the nation.”

The Nightly and The West Australian’s Editor-in-Chief, Christopher Dore, said: “Andrew’s extensive expertise in national security, defence and federal politics makes him one of the most respected journalists in the country. His sharp instincts and experience are a tremendous asset, and we’re delighted to welcome him to the team.”

The Nightly and The West Australian’s Editor, Sarah-Jane-Tasker, said: “Andrew’s reporting consistently cuts through the noise, delivering facts with precision and insight readers can trust. Andrew navigates complex and sensitive political issues, that shape national conversations and even change our political landscape.”

Launched in February 2024, The Nightly has established itself as a key player in the Australian media sector, featuring some of the best journalists and agenda-setting commentators in the country.

The Nightly has expanded its digital offering to include 'The Nightly On' series and recently announced the appointment of award-winning journalist Richard Clune to lead its premium travel initiative, which will be launched soon.

Mr Greene joins The Nightly and The West Australian in Canberra from 8 September 2025.
